DESCRIPTION

A rare opportunity to acquire a charming residential smallholding or equestrian property extending to approximately 19.64 acres, situated on the edge of the popular rural village of Thirkleby.

Foxglove Cottage is an attractive traditional two-bedroom bungalow, occupying a delightful position within landscaped gardens and surrounded by adjoining paddocks. The property is accessed directly from the public highway, leading to a generous parking area, while a separate access serves the grassland. The property is offered for sale as a whole or in two separate lots, providing flexibility for a range of purchasers.

Lot 1 - The Bungalow, Gardens, Woodland and Paddocks Extending to 6.35 Acres. (Edged Red)

Lot 1 comprises a detached two-bedroom bungalow set well back from the road and approached via a private driveway leading to a generous parking area to the front of the property.

The accommodation is well laid out and briefly comprises an entrance hall leading into the main hallway, from which all of the principal rooms are accessed. The dining room overlooks the gardens and leads through to a conservatory, while the lounge, featuring an open fireplace, connects to the traditional kitchen. Off the kitchen is a family bathroom fitted with a bath, separate shower, WC and wash hand basin, together with a useful utility room providing access to the rear garden. The accommodation is completed by two good-sized double bedrooms, both with fitted wardrobes.

Whilst the bungalow would benefit from modernisation, it offers excellent potential for improvement and could be extended or reconfigured, subject to the necessary consents, to create a superb family home.

Outside, the property is surrounded by well-established gardens with lawns, mature trees, shrubs and a variety of fruit trees, creating a private and attractive setting. There is also a paved patio, a detached brick workshop, greenhouse and several useful garden sheds.

Beyond the gardens are paddocks extending around the eastern side of the property, together with an area of mature woodland to the north and west. Within the woodland is a timber pole barn, providing useful storage and offering potential for further improvement. Beyond the woodland lies a further paddock extending to approximately 3.5 acres, incorporating two attractive ponds and offering excellent opportunities for grazing, conservation, tree planting or simply enjoying the surrounding countryside.

Overall, Lot 1 offers an increasingly rare opportunity to acquire a bungalow with established gardens, woodland and pasture with excellent scope to modernise and create an exceptional rural home.

Lot 2 – 13.29 Acres of Grassland (Edged Blue)

Lot 2 extends to approximately 13.29 acres of productive grassland. The land has been well maintained and managed, most recently being cut for hay and haylage, although it is equally well suited for grazing livestock or equestrian use.

Access is taken via the entrance to Thirkleby Caravan Park, as identified by the 'X' on the sale plan. The land is relatively level, with well-maintained boundaries providing clearly defined enclosures.

The land is classified as Grade 2 on the Agricultural Land Classification Map, reflecting its quality and versatility for a range of agricultural and rural uses.

Whether purchased separately or alongside Lot 1, the land represents an excellent opportunity to acquire a useful block of grassland in an accessible rural location.

Overall, Foxglove Cottage presents a rare opportunity to acquire a residential smallholding extending to approximately 19.64 acres, with excellent potential to create an outstanding equestrian property, lifestyle holding or rural family home. Alternatively, the property is available in two lots, providing flexibility for a range of purchasers.
